

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON:

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1883

AN UNWELCOME ASSERTION.

The iconoclasts will not leave a single cherished belief. Not content with destroying the illusions of antiquity and settled opinions of later times, according to cynical statisticians who have been rummaging in the Washington archives, it is now alleged that La Fayette, when about to come to this country and do battle against the minions of tyranny, made Silas Deane, the American minister at Paris with Ben Franklin, sign a contract that he should be a major-general, and be paid so much a month from the time he left la belle France. If there is any one idea more than another in regard to our history firmly fixed in the American mind, it is that La Fayette, the young, impulsive, patriotic La Fayette, flew from France to succor the Continentals, and from the impulses of a noble nature gave personal and material aid to the infant colonies in their struggle for independence. The documents now alleged to have been produced place him in the same light as the Hessians who came over here to whip us back into submission, at so much a day. We do not believe that La Fayette story; we don't want to believe it; it is infinitely preferable to retain the first and more fragrant memory; and to picture La Fayette as a gallant young Frenchman who came as did a hundred more—Steuben and Dekalb from Germany, Kosciuszko from Poland—toward the cause of liberty, and to fight, and if need be, to die in her defence.

In the coming congress Texas will use every effort that a united congressional delegation can use to procure an appropriation for the improvement of the Galveston bar. The same arguments used in that extreme corner of the union apply with equal force in this northwestern section. If anything the need is greater for Columbia improvement. The Lone Star state realizes that concentration is necessary, and the frittering away of possible congressional appropriations in an attempt to placate all portions of the state is recognized as mistaken policy. There is an example in this that Oregon would do well to imitate.

The New York Tribune advocates a law for the collection of statistics of the wealth brought to America by immigrants from the old world. It thinks we may be getting more gold into the country from the pockets of immigrants than from our mines. In past years 25,000,000 immigrants have come to our shores. If they average $20 in gold for each person there is an addition of $500,000,000 to the country's capital. The income yearly from this source alone would perhaps pay the interest on $400,000,000 of the public debt.

The idols worshipped by the heathen of Africa and India are nearly all manufactured in England, and pay a very handsome profit. It is stated that the commercial value of the brass and cast iron goods shipped to heathen lands far exceeds that of the Bibles, books and tracts which reach the same destination.

Middlebury, Vt., talks of putting a marble slab in its new town hall, with a record of the towns invention. It claims the circular saw, the wool-picking machine, power looms, sawing marble by sand, water, and soft iron, welding cast-steel and making door and window sash by water power.

The Mormon apostles own and run a bank, street railroads, and opera house and a mammoth trading post in Salt Lake City, control the Utah Central railroad and collect $500,000 a year in tithes from the faithful followers of the Church of the Latter-Day Saints.

Bath continues to be the great center of shipbuilding in Maine, and turns out this year 11 ships, 2 barkes, 1 brig, 39 schooners, 7 sloops and 9 steamers, a total tonnage of 40,000, or about the same as last year. The total tonnage built in the state this year is about 60,000.

Under date of October 28th, the N. Y. Tribune's London correspondent writes: "I received last night a letter bearing the post mark of San Francisco, October 10, 1 r. m.—fifteen days from the Pacific coast to the banks of the Thames.

English doctors are entering on a crusade against the consumption of canned goods, inveighing against their alleged unhealthfulness. There is little doubt that if not properly packed, acid fruits and vegetables may be unhealthful.

The Memphis, Tenn., Avalanche says that a census of southern editors shows two captains, seventeen majors, seven generals and 1826 colonels. There are no privates and no officers below the rank of captain.

New York papers report that editors of all kinds are advancing in price, and that advocates of domestic economy are melancholy. Good beef is becoming scarce, and is going higher.

Judge Goodwin, one of the leading newspaper men on the coast, has obtained control of the Salt Lake Tribune. The price paid was $75,000.

HALL'S "Picturesque Northwest," with the "compliments of the Northern Pacific Railroad," is received. Astoria gets seven lines.

SLIGHT ODDS.

A Little Story with a Large Moral —One Man who Knew his Own Business.

"No, my dear," said the venerable keeper of a country store to a timid little girl whose head scarcely came up to the level of the counter. "No, my dear, we haven't any red flannel, but we have some first rate New Orleans molasses." Softly hinting that she didn't think that would answer the purpose quite as well, the child went her way in search of the article she wanted.

"Have you BENSON'S CAPSICINE PLASTER?" asked a gentleman of a certain drugist whose name could be given were it desired. "I am troubled just now with a touch of my old friend, the lumbago, and the Benson's Plaster seems to go to the spot almost as soon as it touches the skin."
